This year of 1955 is the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Sisters of Mercy in Maryland. Devoted to the care of the poor, sick, and ignorant, the Sisters have continuously performed spiritual and corporal works of mercy in numerous hospitals and schools throughout the state. Mount Saint Agnes College is but one example of their accomplishments in the field of higher education. Pope Pius XI stated that the product of a Christian education should be a true and finished man of character and that he should be able to think, judge, and act constantly and consistently according to right reason. With this goal in mind, the Sisters of Mercy have planned a varied and well balanced program for the students of Mount Saint Agnes College. It is hoped that by participation in the intellectual, religious, athletic, and social activities available, the girls entering college may become mature and educated young women.

The Student Government Organization

The entire student body constitutes the Student Government Organization. At frequent meetings current activities and problems on campus are discussed, thus making possible a well informed, unified student body. The Student Council through the legislative, executive, and judicial powers granted by the Administration, coordinates campus activities and facilitates faculty-student cooperation. The Resident Council limits its authority to the discipline and social life of the resident students. Through the Student Government Organization's affiliation with the National Federation of Catholic College Students, Mount Saint Agnes College is associated with the other Catholic Colleges of the Baltimore - Washington Region.

Academic Activities

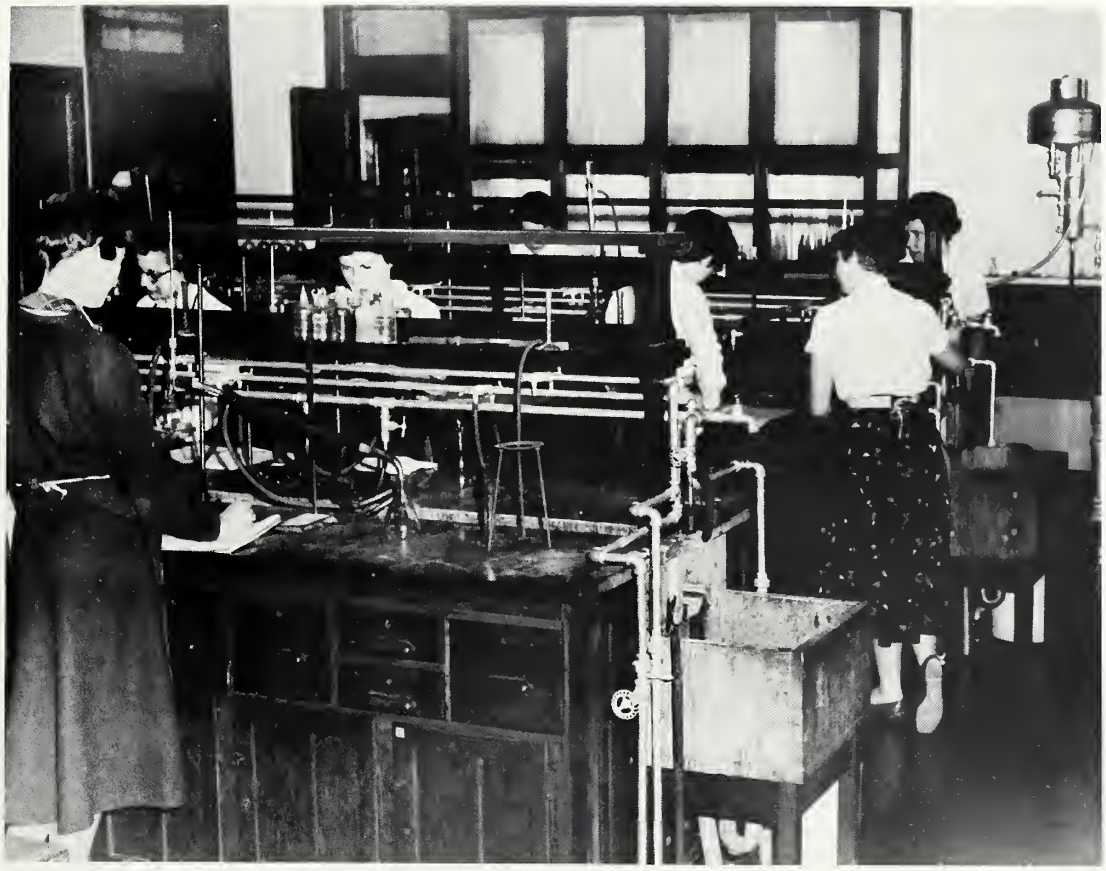
"Grant that the Holy Spirit may enlighten our minds and lead us into all truth."

Louis F. Budenz of Fordham University, an authority on Communism, was guest speaker at the college in January.

Since college is an institution of learning, the academic program consumes the major portion of the student's time and efforts. The program centers around a schedule of classroom instruction which lays the foundation for private study, library research, and laboratory experimentation. There are also many opportunities for broadening textbook knowledge outside the classroom by attendance at lectures by prominent speakers at Mount Saint Agnes College and nearby Johns Hopkins University and Loyola College and by trips to Washington and local research centers. The Peabody Conservatory and the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra as well as guest soloists and choruses at the college provide ample opportunity for musical development.

A peep into this classroom finds the students intensely interested in the historical facts as related by Sister Mary Pius.

Many an hour is spent by every student trying to understand the material and grasp the knowledge of a complicated curriculum.



In the hush of the lab, these future scientists are busily and carefully preparing for an organic chemistry experiment, so as to obtain a pure and abundant end-product.

Current world problems provide interesting and debatable topics for discussion by the members of the International Relations Club.

There are academic clubs on the campus in which students may broaden their own particular field of study. They include the Education, Humanities, International Relations, Science and Secretarial Clubs. Each organization has regular meetings throughout the school year and plans interesting and varied programs which include guest and student speakers, movies, and field trips. Through the corridors of the college, bulletin board space is available for current news and displays of the activities of the various clubs.

Applying the principles brought forth at the meetings of the Secretarial Club, these future career women seek to perfect their skills.

The Science Club members are deeply engrossed in the demonstration of micro-technique by Joan Noyes.

Alma Lum and Pat Morgan, two members of the Education Club, display this fine group of first graders over whom they have charge.

These fortunate travelers relate to the Humanities Club many historical and traditional facts about the countries of Europe and Asia Minor which they visited.

Acclaimed the best production of the Dramatic Club was the Greek tragedy, "Electra," starring Ann Kruzel with supporting players Bette Hascup and John Kenney.

In pantomime the woeful tale of "The Shepherd in the Distance" was presented by the Dramatic Club, bringing amusement and entertainment to the audience.

Those students with either musical or dramatic interest have opportunities to participate in the Glee Club, Marian Choir, and the Dramatic Club. The Marian Choir sings at religious functions, and the principal project of the Glee Club is its annual spring concert. The Dramatic Club usually presents one major production in which students from Loyola College participate, and one or more minor productions.

The Glee Club directed by Joseph McCall works earnestly in preparation for its annual spring concert.

Rushing to meet the deadline to bring "fresh" news to the Mount Reflector are Mary Ellen Terry, Business Manager; Kathy Roddy, Pat Miskelly, Nancy Wills, Reporters; and Shirley Jules, Editor.

The cooperation and efforts of Pat Clark, Photography Editor; Cele Chambers, Business Manager; and Claire Meeth and Jean Schrodetzki, Co-editors, made the publication of the 1955 Mercedian possible.

Hours of practice by the Marian Choir resulted in a melodious blending of voices at the Christmas Program.

Religious Activities

"Come, O Holy Spirit, fill the hearts of Thy faithful and kindle in them the fire of Thy divine love."

The Sisters and the college students joined to honor the Blessed Mother during the Marian Year in many ways, one of which was the Solemn High Mass.

The blossoming flowers and budding foliage made the Grotto perfect for Benediction at the close of the May Procession.

The daily Rosary gives us the chance to stop for a moment of prayer in the midst of a busy day.

Intellectual growth and development would be worthless without spiritual advancement. The Catholic students at Mount Saint Agnes College have every opportunity to learn their religion in theory and practice. Besides the required religion courses and the activities of the Sodality and Liturgy Club, there are numerous opportunities to increase their love of God and to grow closer to Him through divine worship at both McAuley Hall Chapel and Atkinson Hall Chapel. There is the daily recitation of the rosary, the weekly dialogue Mass or Missa Recitata, which has recently been changed to the Missa Cantata, exposition of the Blessed Sacrament on first Fridays, the annual retreat, and the May Procession, as well as special serviees during Lent, Advent, and Feast Days.

Joy of giving is reflected in the happy countenances of these active Sodalists who are wrapping Christmas gifts for the first graders of St. Peters School. Seated, left to right: are Peggy Wheltle, Peggy Murphy, Elissa Beere, Joan di Leonardi (Prefect), Sheila Ryan, and Eleanor Hicks.

Lila Maier, Alma Lum, Nancy Wood, and Mary Ann Brearton, members of the Liturgy Club, gather to examine the newly completed bulletin board.

Athletic Activities

"May the power of the Holy Spirit be near us and defend us from all harm."

This trio, the backbone of the A. A., has spent many hours planning a full and well organized athletic program. They are Shirley Lowry, President; Peggy Wheltle, Vice President; Mary Frances Kuhn, Secretary.

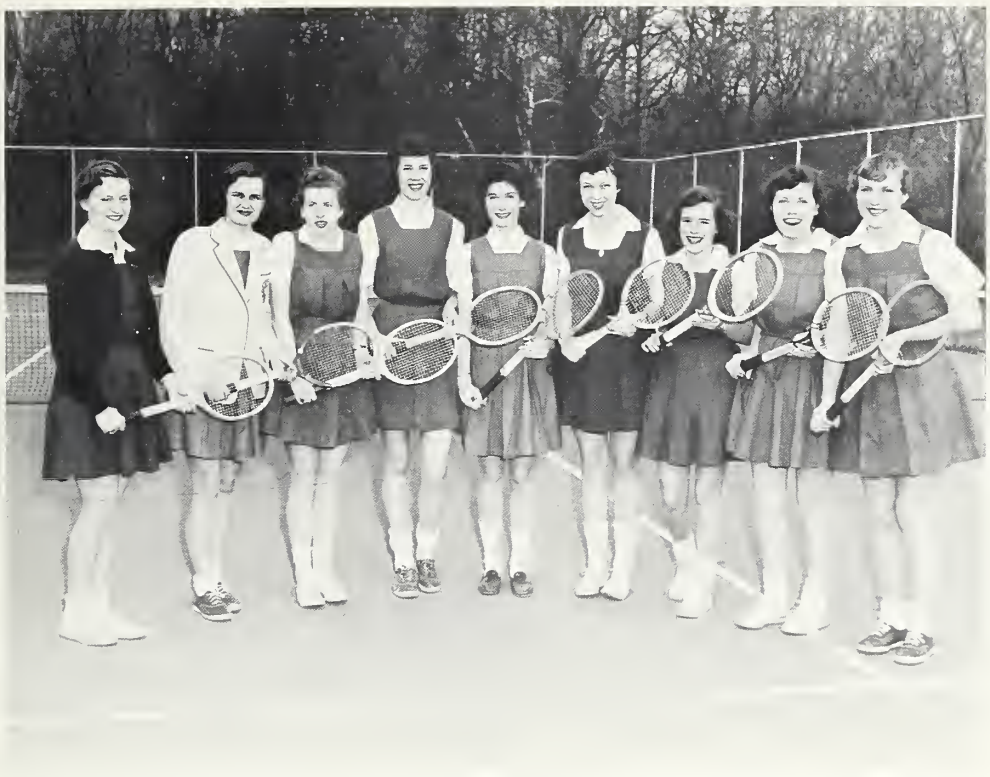
Enthusiastic cheers of Janet MacLeod, Kitty Kelly, Pat Bell, Shirley Lowry, Peggy Murphy, and Eleyse Connell boost the spirit of our teams, leading them to victory.

Active participation in sports is an immediate precursor to the development of a complete, happy personality, good health, and spirited sportsmanship. Athletics give us a clean and wholesome outlook on everyday problems. The Athletic Association, one of the largest clubs on campus, has enlivened our stay at the Mount by providing opportunities for Varsity and Junior Varsity competition in the major sports as well as intramural games and tournaments in basketball, hockey, volleyball, softball, tennis, ping-pong, badminton, and swimming. This year golf, bowling, and tennis instruction by professional players were added to the A.A.'s program. The scope of athletics available is broad and enables the students to become well rounded persons with good physical habits.

The thrills and excitement of the game with Saint Joseph's College resulted in sore throats and a victory for M. S. A.

The golf instructor, Mr. Strausbaugh, shows Shirley Jules the proper hand grip as Terry Costello, Joan Perkins, Joan Garvin, and Joanne Manzo look on.

Anxiously anticipating a home run, the freshmen wait on the sidelines as a team-mate gets ready for the "big swing."



With racquets in hand and the smile of victory brightening their countenances, members of the team are ready to accept any challenging opponents. They are Joan Perkins, Shirley Lowry, Peggy Wheltle, Terry Mulvihill, Eleyse Connell, Mary Frances Kuhn, Dotty Pyle, Joanne Reklis, and Carolyn Gaff.

The varsity hockey team beams forth with a healthy smile after a season of vigorous practices and exciting games. Kneeling, left to right are Elna Buckner, Peggy Wheltle, Mary E. Terry, Dotty Pyle, and Cele Chambers. Standing, left to right are Noreen Miller, Mary F. Kuhn, Carol Meeth, Mary F. Penn, Carolyn Gaff, Barbara Heinz, and Mary K. Steinkamp.

Social Activities

"May the infusion of the Holy Spirit purify our hearts and make them fruitful by the sprinkling with the dew of His grace."

The Christmas spirit filled the air as Bill Beck's Orchestra played for a gay and fun-filled evening.

There will always be fond memories of the Sno Ball, reigned over by King Jim Durkin and Queen Marion Fuehrer.

The peak of informality and country-style fun was enlivened by the squeak of the fiddle and the rhythmic voice of the caller at the annual Barn Dance.

Since almost every college student loves dances, the social program would not be complete without them. At Mount Saint Agnes there is a variety of dances, both formal and informal, throughout the year. One of the largest and most important formal dances is the Sno-Ball at which a Queen is chosen by the votes of the students. Among the informal affairs are included a Christmas Dance, a Midshipman Dance, a Barn Dance, and Mixers with Loyola, Johns Hopkins, Mount Saint Mary's, the Naval Academy, and Fort Holabird.

The music pauses, as every one takes time out for refreshments at the Holabird Mixer.

Following an afternoon of thrills and excitement at the Notre Dame-Navy football game, these couples enjoyed a soothing evening of soft music and dancing.

The carollers sing joyously, spreading glad Christmas tidings throughout the campus and neighboring Mount Washington.

It is hard to say who had more fun at the children's Christmas party — the children or the students!

This happy quartet helped add to the festivity and gayety at the Mount on Saint Patrick's Day.

As part of their initiation program, the Freshmen entertain the upperclassmen with gay songs and glad rags.

Good old fashioned harmony and friendly chatter is accelerated by charcoal crisp marshmallows during Orientation Week.

Traditions

"Grant us by the Holy Spirit to relish what is right and ever rejoice in His comfort."

The wide selection at the Bazaar presents a problem — "what to buy"

Each year both students and faculty anticipate those traditional activities which are such an integral part of Mount Saint Agnes College. They give to the college a charm, individuality, and pleasant atmosphere which is enjoyed and appreciated by all who are a part of the campus. The events of Freshmen Orientation, the Thanksgiving Supper and Bazaar, Christmas Carolling, and the presentation of the Christmas gift to the Sisters, comprise the most important activities of the fall and winter. In the spring the schedule of traditional affairs is full, and includes the May Procession, the A.A. Banquet, and the events preceding graduation which have such a deep sentimental value to all the Seniors.

The first social event of the year is the tea at which the Freshmen become acquainted with the faculty and upper classmen.

As a symbol of the unification of faith and scholarship, Sister Mary Cleophas, President of Mount Saint Agnes College, presents each freshman with her blessed academic cap.

The warmth of the Mount's tradition was reflected when the students gathered at the Christmas Party to present the Sisters with their gift.

Carolyn Doud, representing the Sophomore Class, received the Hunt Cup from Mrs. Hale as a token of outstanding athletic accomplishments at the Annual Athletic Association Banquet.

With the Sisters and students of the lower schools, the Mount collegians participated in the May Procession in honor of the Blessed Mother.

In honor of the Class of 1955, the Juniors planted a maple tree on the campus at the traditional Tree Planting Ceremony.

During the Class Day Program, the Seniors directed by Katherine Nicholson sang their farewell song.

After the stress and strain of exams, an opportunity for delightful chatter and relaxation was had by all at the Junior-Senior Banquet.

The Freshmen-Senior Picnic was the first of many graduation activities.

After an evening of amusing entertainment and reminiscent singing, the Sophomores treated the Seniors to refreshments on Candlelight Night.

The dancing, the Grand March, and the gayety of the Prom will always be remembered and cherished by every Senior.

Expressions of anxiety and concentration on the finished product were cast as the girls prepare for a tasty picnic lunch of hot dogs, potato chips, and cokes.

The solemnity of the Baccalaureate Mass and the impressive sermon of the Reverend John J. Dougherty was most significant to all the graduates.

The climax of our college careers came when we received our diplomas from Bishop Sebastian.

First row: M. Comber, D. Anderson, H. Habighurst, C. Chambers, L. Lopez, M. E. Journey, E. Renehan, J. Spann, J. Schrodetzki, J. Perkins, S. Lowry, F. Rankin, M. V. Gunn. Second row: C. Conners, J. Bowerman, M. A. Ridgely, C. Meeth, J. di Leonardi, N. Skurchuk, D. Riera, J. Dumler, E. Buckner, K. Nicholson, P. Clark, M. J. Burens, M. J. Voll. Third row: N. Barnard, A. Kruzel, C. Gurgel, M. K. Senior Class Officers

SISTER MARY BERCHMANS, R.M.S.
Class Moderator

Sister Berchmans, our class moderator, has been our inspiration and guide throughout our four years at the Mount. Early in our Freshman year, she instilled in us an enthusiastic spirit that has kept us together working as a unit for our class and for the school. But, more important, she has always endeavored to help us to advance spiritually during our college years. Not only was she interested in us as a class, but she also took a deep and warm interest in each one of us individually. We are glad to have this opportunity to express our gratitude and appreciation for all that she has done to make these four of the best years of our lives.

Frances Rankin
Secretary-Treasurer

Catherine Althoff

Bachelor of Science Nursing

Before entering Mount Saint Agnes College, Catherine had already become a registered nurse. Proud of her profession and interested in her work, she continued to practice nursing while studying for her degree. Leading a full and strenuous life, she was a busy student with aspirations for advancement in the future. Her determination and maturity was evident at both S.G.O. and class meetings where she offered her opinions, suggestions, and constructive criticism. In class too, she never failed to express her ideas openly and contribute to the discussions. Catherine's individuality and personality could best be appreciated through her dry sense of humor and her witty comments between classes and at social affairs. Though dignified and reserved, she did not lack spirit and enthusiasm when it was most needed.

Doris Elizabeth Anderson

Bachelor of Arts Education

A newcomer to the Mount in 1953, Doris rapidly became known and admired. With a happy blending of idealism and realism she reflected an inner goodness, friendliness and gentle thoughtfulness for others. Employing dry remarks and unblemished imitations, she provided eternal entertainment for the Mercy Hall residents. Besides being Editor of Spheres, she was also active in the Education Club and led the overseas program of the N.F.C.C.S. With a natural talent for expression and writing, she was wise in choosing English as her major field. Her Catholic background and education will enable her to be a successful teacher, and her irresistible good humor and optimism will make any pupil content to be in her class.

Nancy Barnard

Bachelor of Science Nursing

Mature and reserved, Nancy was sincere in her endeavors both at the Mount and Mercy Hospital. Her clever witticism and enthusiasm made her known and admired by everyone. On entering Nurse's training she quickly adapted to the new routine, loving every minute of it. Always prompt for duty she proved to be exceptionally observant and gentle in caring for her patients. Her main interest lies in the dramatic atmosphere of the operating room, where she hopes to continue after graduation. Cooperative and generous, Nancy was available whenever there was a job to be done. She possessed a deep sense of responsibility and a pleasant personality, which are essential qualities for a good nurse.

Joan Bowerman

Bachelor of Arts Chemistry

Hidden behind her usually serious countenance was a dry and subtle humor unmatched in our class. Joan was the dean's "problem child," always anxious to take many courses in addition to her full Chemistry schedule. Yet the ease with which she took them all in stride was something at which we marvelled, for she never failed to make the Dean's List. A trip to Europe during the summer of her Junior year convinced Joan that German was her first love. She hopes to do graduate work in that field. As President of both the International Relations Club and the Humanities Club in her Senior year, she demonstrated her competence in executive tasks and spread to the rest of us her interest in world affairs and culture.

Elna Kay Buckner

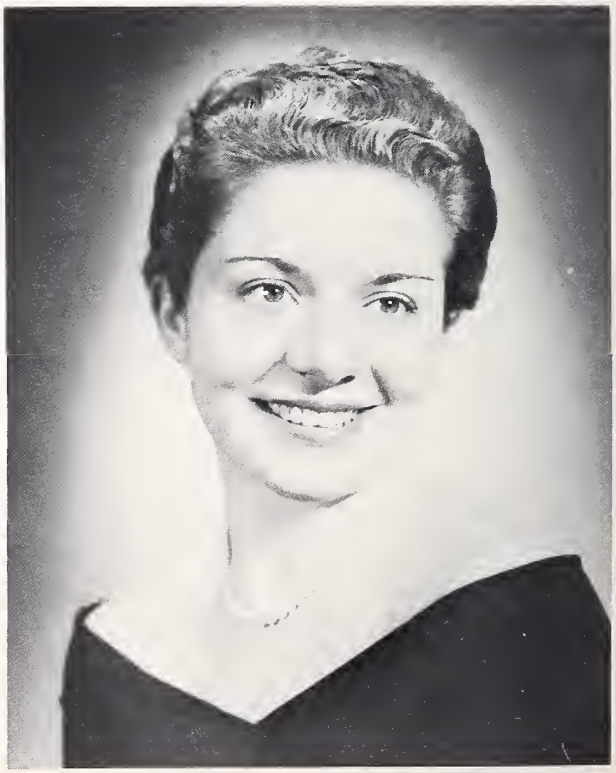
Bachelor of Arts English

As President of the Senior class, Bucky, with her vibrant personality, keen sense of humor and versatility, has proven herself a born leader. Equally at ease on the athletic field or behind the rostrum, she has been a pioneer in initiating new ideas and strengthening school spirit. With a power pen she has presented convincing newspaper editorials and an original, witty script for the 1954 Musical Comedy. Because of her natural talent for expression and her intelligent interpretation of the classics, she has chosen English as her major. Her athletic prowess cannot be overlooked for during the past four years no varsity team was complete without her. Full of vitality and diverse interests she continued to be alive in body and mind, performing her duties efficiently and working industriously toward their completion.

Mary Jane Burens

Bachelor of Science Medical Technology

Known for those sudden carefree blushes, Bunny found it equally easy to be gay or serious as the occasion demanded. Beneath her quiet dignity lay a rare combination of modesty and self confidence. She had a spontaneous wit and a dry sense of humor which helped her remain undisturbed by tense situations encountered as a Medical Technologist. As the Assistant Photography Editor of the Mercedian in her Junior year and as a committee member for many dances, she fulfilled her duties with a sense of responsibility and dependability. In her leisure time, she was a faithful victim of the bridge bug and the argyle craze. Mary Jane's soft deep voice, sweet simplicity, and optimism point to a wonderful person to work with and to know.



Josepha Mary Caraher

Bachelor of Arts Chemistry

Josepha, our rural commuter from Woodstock, loved the outdoors and the animal life which surrounded her. As a Chemistry major, she often associated her studies with agriculture whether scientific or philosophic. Her interest and enthusiasm in all activities were seemingly boundless, although participation in the International Relations Club and the Science Club were her favorites. In both work and play, her warm smile never failed to radiate friendliness. She was always glad to lend a willing and helpful hand to everyone. Her enjoyment and capacity for food belied her slender graceful appearance. Josepha was in all things a lady, in the truest and finest sense of the word.

Cecelia Geraldine Chambers

Bachelor of Arts Chemistry

Basically spurting with enthusiasm and gayety, Cele also had her serious moments. When not concentrating on Chemistry, she dreamed with pleasant anticipation of some "far off place," filled with excitement. With her happy-go-lucky manner and eager air, she was a "must" for a good time. Throughout her college career the Athletic Association claimed her ardent support, both as a varsity star and an officer. Energetic and versatile Cele played and enjoyed almost every sport, but particularly basketball and hockey. She had a wealth of school and class spirit and participated wholeheartedly in all their activities. As Business Manager of the Mercedian, she gave evidence of her ability to lead and organize and gave positive proof that she could complete such a difficult task with efficiency and dependability.

Patricia Douglas Clark

Bachelor of Arts Education

Small in stature — but mighty in deeds, was our busy friend from Merrifield, Virginia. In her Senior year much of Pat's time was consumed directing the photography for the Mercedian, yet she still found time to be active in the N.F.C.C.S., Liturgy Commission, and the Campus Liturgy Club. Her keen analytical mind and diligent study has attained for her, outstanding scholastic achievement. Being an advocate of the "3 x 3 + 2 = 10" and the "eat and stay thin" theories, she was always ready to give a dissertation on either topic, for those who were in doubt. A woman of noble ideas and sensibility, she will carry the depth of Christian ideals wherever she may go.

Madeleine Comber

Bachelor of Arts Chemistry

Madeleine's neat appearance, lady like manners, and excellent scholarship made her a model student. She was an active participant in all phases of campus activities, including the International Relations Club, the Mercedian, and the Athletic Association. As an officer of the Sodality for four years, she was a leader in its devotional program. Presiding over the Science Club brought out many of her executive abilities in organization and in public speaking. Even though leading a full and active life she managed to fulfill all her duties and responsibilities exceptionally well, and never missed the Dean's List. She was always prudent in her decisions and in budgeting her time. Above everything Madeleine maintained a friendly and happy disposition, showing kindness and understanding to all.

Mary Catherine Conners

Bachelor of Science Nursing

Catherine went into Nursing because she wanted to help people. With this spirit she has given a helping hand to many of us since she joined our class as a Junior. Although conscientious in her studies and serious in her purpose, her warm sweetness, thoughtfulness, and friendliness were always shining through. Even though she had been away from a school atmosphere for a while, she entered right into all our activities and helped to make them a success. If the way she applied herself at school is any indication of her manner at the hospital, her patients are fortunate indeed. She is a wonderful friend and a fine representative of the Nursing profession.

Joan di Leonardi

Bachelor of Arts Biology

Soft spoken, conscientious, and generous, Joan has become an outstanding Mount Collegian in a quiet, humble manner. She was never too busy to stop for a few friendly words, and her car was never too full to drive one more girl up the hill. A leader throughout her four years of college, she efficiently performed the duties of Vice President of the S.G.O., Vice President of her class for two years, and Prefect of the Sodality. Extending her abilities beyond our own campus, Joan served as Vice President of the Baltimore College Sodality Union and was an active representative to the N.F.C.C.S. She well deserved the honor of being elected to the Who's Who in American Colleges.

Jeannie Theresa Dumler

Bachelor of Science Medical Technology

Jeannie, thoughtful and understanding, always had a friendly smile for everyone. Expressive hand gestures and long blinking eye lashes complimented her pleasant speaking voice. Although extremely quick in thought and action, she manifested a tactfulness and accuracy to be commended. As a Medical Technologist she worked conscientiously and earnestly, with persistence and patience. Her interests were by no means limited to science, for she found much pleasure in classical music, ballet, and drama. In constructing the scenery for the 1954 Musical Comedy, she revealed a secret skill of carpentry. Her ability to knit argyles was unforgettable. Jeannie's serious attitude about her work plus her gay, fun loving disposition is a combination that cannot fail.

Mary Katharyn Feeley

Bachelor of Science Medical Technology

Because of her readiness to listen and help anyone who might need her, Leigh was always a kind and understanding friend. During her four years at college she completed many unrewarded tasks, and yet continued willing to offer her unlimited services. A side interest in dramatics was brought to light by her appearance in "She Stoops to Conquer," and by her art of make-up for Candlelight Night and the 1954 Musical Comedy. Overall efficiency and dependability were her bywords in the laboratory. A push-buttom excitability, soft contagious laughter, and "Shuby" — all typify Leigh. Accompanying her sense of humor and pleasant disposition is her deep love of God and neighbor, which will surely lead her to a happy and successful future.

Mary Virginia Gunn

Bachelor of Arts Education

With a winsome smile and friendly "hello," Mary Virginia expressed a joy of life which was evident to all who knew her. A narration of her numerous experiences over exciting, adventurous weekends provided indispensable enjoyment and entertainment to every listener. Though demure, she possessed an amiable laugh which helped lighten the burden of a college career. Because she was intent on becoming a teacher she took particular interest in the Education Club. Her capabilities were reflected by her gentle personality and kindness toward her students. Her Catholic education and high ideals should enable her to take a prominent place in the teaching profession, sharing with her pupils the knowledge and happiness which is hers.

Helen Woods Habighurst

Bachelor of Science Nursing

Helen's blonde hair and ready smile added a spark to her vivacity and friendliness. Indicative of her popularity, she was elected to the Sno-Queen's court in her Sophomore year. While playing on the varsity basketball team, her trick shots and agile movements on the court were unforgettable. She loved to dance and her rhythm and coordination combined to give smooth and graceful results on the ballroom floor. Helen was a conscientious student and longed for a nursing career. With sympathetic understanding, she took a personal interest in the problems of others and helped them in whatever way possible. Devoted to her profession, Helen will be an asset to any sick room.

Mary Evelyn Journey

Bachelor of Science Medical Technology

Mary Evelyn, a native of Alabama, was known for her distinct vocal quality — "So free and easy on the drawl." She was the essence of dependability and responsibility and exercises her leadership qualities as Resident Representative to the Student Council and as Vice-President of the Senior Class. Although she was always busy, she did find time to read the Selma Times Journal daily. Her watch was always fast, making her early for all appointments. Because of her punctuality and her accuracy, she did exceptional work in the lab at Mercy Hospital. A living symbol of the Mount, her lovliness of mind and heart and her love of everything noble and sublime will enable her to readily become one of our future Catholic leaders.

Ann Marie Kruzel

Bachelor of Science Medical Technology

Because of her enthusiasm and congeniality, Annie quickly became an integral part of the Mount on her arrival here in her Sophomore year. She was elected Secretary-Treasurer of her class and held this office for two years. Blessed with a rich melodic voice, Ann has found great satisfaction and pleasure in the Glee Club and became its President in her Junior year. Second only to her musical talent, which proved invaluable in the 1954 Musical Comedy, was her dramatic ability as seen in "Electra." Hidden beneath her nonchalant, carefree exterior was a deep sensitivity and a warm heart. Although excitable at exam time, her calmness in the laboratory and her avid interest in the medical field made her choice of a hospital career a wise one.

Lillian Rosalinda Lopez

Bachelor of Science Medical Technology

With determined, button bright eyes and a Spanish accent, Lillian reflected the height of enthusiasm and carnestness directed particularly to thc pursuit of her career. Her virtues of fortitude and perseverance enabled her to complete the difficult schedule of a Medical Technologist. She did exceptionally well in the Mercy Hospital laboratory, displaying orderliness and efficiency in her work. A perfect lady with an air of graciousness, she presented an elegant appearance with her stylish manner of dress and her neat coiffure. Her company always brought with it laughter and cnjoyment and infected everyone with her contagious enthusiasm. Although a ring has recently broadened her interests, she still remains a warm, loving friend.

Shirley Mae Lowry

Bachelor of Arts Education

Shirley, always a perfect lady, conducted herself with an air of dignity and femininity. Pert, neat, and with a rippling laughter, she graced many social occasions with her poise and charm. Because of her agility on the tennis court and her cnthusiasm as a chcerleader she was elected President of the Athletic Association. In this office as well as Secretary of the Secretarial Club, she showed her adaptability and capability to meet any situation. Shirley was very popular at the Mount because of her friendliness and sincerity. No doubt, these characteristics plus her democratic principles and diplomacy will make her a successful teachcr.

Mary Claire Meeth

Bachelor of Science Medical Technology

Claire's soft voice, pleasant smile and easy going manner made working and playing with her a real joy. Serious about the Medical Technology course, she was always a conscientious student and a diligent worker, never becoming impatient and never complaining. As co-editor of the Mercedian, she did not limit herself to the publication alone, but worked enthusiastically to finance it. Athletics was her favorite extra curricular activity and she showed special skill in hockey, basketball, and tennis. Generous with her time, Claire served on many committees for school, class and Sodality functions. She will always be remembered for her graciousness, courtesy and understanding.

Katherine Nicholson

Bachelor of Science Medical Technology

Though petite, Kit is filled with ideas and bubbling over with energy. Because of her remarkable dancing talent, her performance and direction of the choreography in the 1954 Musical Comedy was outstanding. The Class Day Songs also expressed her talent and love for music. Being an active person, she enjoyed participation in swimming, basketball and other intramural sports. Her miniature automobile "Jessabella" gave evidence of a sense of practicality and a subtle sense of humor. Kit is a level headed, deep thinker who backs up her ideas with sound arguments. Using common sense, scientific curiosity, and scientific methods, she has worked earnestly to become a fine Medical Technologist.

Joan Henrietta Perkins

Bachelor of Arts Biology

Because of her countless achievements and efforts, Joan truly deserved to be elected to "Who's Who". She was Class President for two years, and anything accomplished was due to her inspirational leadership. She was co-author and director, as well as performer, in the dramatic presentations which we produced. In addition to her participation in many campus clubs, she was a loyal athlete. Nothing was done that she did not support wholeheartedly and enthusiastically. The student body elected her president of the Student Government Organization and she fulfilled this office faithfully and well. Joan's poise and friendly manner were outstanding, moreover typical of all that a Mount Saint Agnes graduate should be.

Frances Rankin

Bachelor of Arts Education

Rusty, as she was called by her friends, was endowed with a gift of initiating gales of laughter in her fellow students. Because of her quick wit and ability for animated conversation, she was the life of any party. With a voguish taste for clothes, she designed and made many of them herself. Showing a keen interest in the Dramatics club, she acted as President and as participant in its presentations. Her originality and humorous mode of expression made her features for the Mount Reflector amusing and entertaining. As Secretary-Treasurer of the Senior class and an active member of the Secretarial club, she proved her competence and intensity of interest in the business field. She is aptly qualified to teach these subjects to her future students.

Mary Eleanor Renehan

Bachelor of Science Nursing

Quiet and unassuming, Eleanor was serious in her studies and cooperative in the activities at the Mount. Her sweet contagious laughter and the ease with which she so often blushed were characteristic. She was Prefect of the Sodality in her Sophomore year and fulfilled this office efficiently and well. Eleanor enjoyed athletics and played both varsity hockey and basketball; however, recently much of her leisure time was occupied by the more reserved hobby of knitting and embroidering. Her sense of responsibility and dependability was recognized during nurses training, and she was elected Treasurer of the Senior Class at Mercy Hospital. The Nursing profession will welcome this kind and unselfish young lady to its fold.

Mary Anita Ridgely

Bachelor of Science Nursing

Mary Anita, one of our nurses, invigorated by an innate desire to assist mankind has shown a love for her chosen field by her many hours of devotion to it. Her quiet manner and sweet friendly disposition have won many patients and she has replaced many an ache or pain with a smile or tender word. While off duty her fun-loving nature and amiable personality are an asset in any situation. During her three years at Mercy Hospital she has remained as close as possible to the Mount, taking part in functions whenever able. This unceasing loyalty will prevail even in the future as she plans to remain at Mercy.

Doralia Riera

Bachelor of Science Education

Dory's roguishly flashing eyes reflected a sparkling personality and they manifested her wholesome, refreshing nature, as well as her typical Spanish temperament. She came to us from Puerto Rico and brought with her an effervescence and charm which she never lost. Due to her thorough training and innate poise she was a successful practice teacher in her Senior Year. Aside from a sparkled enthusiasm in the Secretarial and Education Clubs she has a mania for the mambo and swishing gowns. She was a quick witted volleyball player and indispensable to the class team. Her happy-go-lucky air and vivacious personality will always linger in our memories.

Jean Joyce Schrodetzki

Bachelor of Science Medical Technology

If the term overly-conscientious could be used. it would properly describe Jean. As co-editor of the Mercedian in her Senior year, she spent long hours working on layout and writeups. Throughout her four years Jean could be found in the background, faithfully doing her part to bring events to a successful finish. She was an active Sodalist and Science Club member. Though unnoticed by some, her work has been appreciated by others for its true worth. Jean's unobtrusiveness accompanies her to the laboratory where she quietly completes tests, so vital to mankind. Her mental acumen has been evidenced by the quality of all that she has undertaken, scholastically and socially as well. Fidelity to duty and principle will enable her to take her place in the lay apostolate and bring strength to her co-workers.

Nadia Skurchuk

Bachelor of Science Medical Technology

Quiet and intriguing, Nadia stood out with a flair for the artistic, as expressed in her contributions to school publications and dance decorations. She always made a neat appearance in her chic and fashionable clothes. Going about her duties dependably and unassumingly, she proved to be an excellent Secretary of the S.G.O. and the Science Club. Through her conscientiousness was interspersed a unique sense of humor which came into evidence in her performance at Candlelight Night. As a Medical Technologist, she has shown her ability to apply scientific knowledge with care and patience. A staunch supporter of most school activities, Nadia volunteered her services whenever possible, thus becoming an asset to the mount.

Josephine Marie Spann

Bachelor of Science Nursing

Joey was essentially the organizer and spokesman for the Nurses of our class. She possessed an ability to speak well before an audience, and her pleasant chatter was by no means dull. As an active Sodalist and lay catechist she contributed much to the activities on and off campus. In her leisure time she could usually be found either playing bridge or curled up with a good book. Nursing was her primary interest but recently it has turned specifically to public health. Joey plans to further her studies for a Masters degree in order to enter social work. Her jovial disposition, congenial character, and vigorous manner will lead this young aspirant from Far Hills, New Jersey to a full and rewarding career.

Mary Jane Voll

Bachelor of Arts — Biology

If you wanted something done promptly and well, you could always count on Mary Jane. She was the essence of dependability, whether she was preparing an assignment for class, an article for the Reflector, or a Christmas gift for the orphans. She was a very conscientious student and consistently made the Dean's List. Although usually quiet and shy, we shall never forget her priceless remarks which graced so many occasions. Her friendliness, and sincerity made her well liked by all. Mary Jane had never had a course in Biology before she came to the Mount, but she soon decided to make it her field. Now we feel sure that she will find joy and satisfaction in injecting Catholic philosophy into the world of modern science.

Clare Gergel

Bachelor of Science — Nursing

Anne O'Shea

Bachelor of Science — Nursing

Our class ring will forever glisten as a symbol of never-ending Catholic principles and training. As we slip it on our fingers, it will remind us of the good Sisters of Mercy, who with their love and sacrifice have instilled in us the ideals, standards, wisdom, and knowledge on which our futures depend. We will also recall fond memories of the friends we made and the happy days we spent together. As we say farewell to the Mount and to classmates and teachers, whom we will always hold dear, there will be a place reserved in our hearts for Mount Saint Agnes College and the four years we spent there. May we be ever faithful and loyal to the Christian heritage which is ours.
